

Mothers March Tonight Climaxes County Polio Drive

$6,000 Needed To Match 1952 Drive Figure

Thousands of porch lights will dot the darkness of rural areas and illuminate borough streets at 6:30 tonight. It will be the signal for the Mothers' March on Polio.

Church bells will ring, factory whistles will sound and fire sirens will wail to sound the march. From border to border of the county, women will shrug into their heavy wraps and coats, take their jars or containers with the polio label on them, and stride out to stop at each house where a porch light is turned on, there is a light in the front window, or there's a handkerchief or shoe tied to the door-knob.

They have a tremendous job to do in Monroe County, according to Marie Brown, chairman of the march.

The goal: to collect more than $6,000 for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

If the goal is not met, it is unlikely that the county chapter will attain the $11,400 total contributed to the month-long drive last year.

However, according to Miss Brown, the mothers will be "in there pitching," and it appeared that a fair number of fathers would be pitching along with them—as escorts, and in some cases, "mothers".

To date, there has been about $1,500 contributed to the campaign by generous residents.

Most of this came through coin cards mailed back to polio headquarters in Stroudsburg. More has been added by special activities as the "traveling crutch" and the miniature "iron lung". There have also been some special gifts received through the mail.

With less than $5,000 collected so far—in the last week of the campaign—a lot depends on the Mothers' March tonight, Miss Helen Kulp said. A lot, too, depends on the residents of the county. Their porch lights tonight will indicate whether or not Monroe will assume its share of the national responsibility, in the peculiarly American way of voluntary contributions.

Many residents have been doing what they could afford—and some what they could not afford—through the coin cards.

Here are what just a few of the contributors scribbled on coin cards when they mailed in their contributions—and the brief lines tell poignant stories:

"Am a little late in my donation but here it is. My mother and brother both died with infantile paralysis," wrote an East Stroudsburg woman.

"If we could afford more we would gladly give it," wrote a Mount Pocono resident.

"My husband is dead so I will send what I can, as I gave in the (Continued on page three)

Juries Ponder Remington, Spivey Cases

New York (AP) — William W. Remington's second Communist perjury trial went to a jury yesterday, and the jury still had not reached a verdict by midnight.

As midnight drew near, there was no sign that the jurors might be sent to bed for the night. Their deliberations, broken to a 70-minute dinner recess, included numerous requests for trial data.

At stake for Remington is 25 years of his life, instead of five.

New York (AP) — The perjury case against William Spivey, Kentucky All-American basketball star accused of taking game-fixers' money, went to a jury yesterday and late last night the panel was still pondering a verdict.

At midnight, there was no indication as to whether the General Sessions jury was anywhere near a decision.

Rita Hayworth Granted Divorce From Aly Khan

Reno, Nev. (AP) — Screen star Rita Hayworth got a "no money" working girl divorce yesterday from the fabulously rich Moslem prince, Aly Khan.

Then the red-haired actress sped back to Hollywood to begin dance rehearsals this morning for a new movie.

Appearing in court with the couple's 3-year-old daughter, Yasmin, for whom Rita once had asked a three million dollar settlement from Aly, the actress swore she intended to make Nevada her home indefinitely.

Progress Noted Toward Effective Polio Vaccine

By Alton L. Blakeslee (AP Science Reporter)

New York (AP) — A safe new vaccine against polio has worked in a few humans, and probably will get large-scale trials on children this year, it was announced last night.

Officials raised guarded hopes that this spells the death knell of polio as a crippling and killer.

The vaccine gives humans and animals antibodies against all three types of polio virus. Antibodies are natural disease-fighters that can prevent invading viruses from doing any damage.

Almost-final steps in developing this vaccine were announced by Harry M. Weaver, director of research of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, at a special dinner meeting of foundation trustees.

"I would like to be able to announce this evening that field tests with such a vaccine will be undertaken during 1953," he said.

"This I cannot say with complete assurance, but I can say that tremendous progress has been made during the past several months—in fact, the kind of progress one is accustomed to see prior to the taking of an important forward step," Dr. Weaver declared.

The vaccine would not be available generally until after these human tests are run. Scientists first must learn how long it takes the vaccine to give you antibodies, how long the protection lasts, whether booster shots might be needed after one vaccination.

But it means scientists have gone as far as they can in the laboratory. The next step definitely must be human tests, on many youngsters. And this also implies great confidence in the new vaccine for safety and protection.

The vaccine is made out of killed virus, killed by a chemical, formalin, so that the virus cannot hurt human nerve cells. It is thus perfectly safe.

But the killed virus still keeps some ability to produce antibodies in the human who gets the vaccine.

That ability apparently can be stepped up by giving one or more kinds of mineral oils along with the vaccine, Dr. Weaver said. The vaccine is made more potent.

Getting a supply of virus for vaccines has been achieved. Virus of all three types—Brunhilde, Lansing and Leon—is being grown in test-tubes, in veritable glass farms using animal or human tissues other than nerve tissues.

AEC To Build New Explosive Plant, Test Atomic Weapons

Washington (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission yesterday announced it will construct a new 20-million-dollar explosives assembly plant in West-Central Illinois, and quickly threw a curtain of mystery around the project.

Simultaneously, the commission announced it will conduct a series of tests involving "new and improved" atomic weapons—plus some 18,000 troops—beginning in March on the Yucca Flats of the Nevada Desert.

The tests are widely expected to provide the first field trials of newly developed atomic artillery shells, fired by giant 20-ton cannon capable of hitting targets 20 miles away with pinpoint accuracy.

"The new series of tests is designed to advance development of new and improved nuclear devices," the AEC said, "and will provide additional weapons performance data essential to military and civil defense effects studies."

"Nuclear devices" is the broad scientific term used to describe all kinds of atomic weapons ranging from the conventional A-bomb to the hydrogen "hell bomb."

The commission's announcement that it has selected a 10,000-acre site for the construction of a new assembly plant in Illinois immediately touched off speculation that the AEC was gearing up for the production of high explosive weapons on an assembly-line basis.

However, an AEC spokesman sought to spike conjecture along that line—and incidentally left the exact nature of the project shrouded in considerable mystery.

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Pius XII, who has been ill since last Thursday, was reported improving yesterday. A source close to the Vatican secretary of state confirmed that the 76-year-old Pontiff was suffering from influenza and bronchial pneumonia.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, in its second bulletin on his condition, said the Pope is getting better and that his fever tended to decline this morning.

The newspaper and Vatican sources also confirmed that his illness was more serious than first indicated and that his condition, especially Friday night, had caused concern.

Plane Crashes In Orchard; Four Killed

State College (AP) — Three food executives and a 40-year-old woman, en route to the national potato-chip convention in New York City, were killed yesterday when their private plane crashed in an orchard near here while attempting to make an emergency landing.

State police identified the victims as:

Miss Irene L. Gardner South Bend, Ind., a room clerk for the Hoffman Hotel, South Bend.

Joseph E. Graves, 37, of Springfield, Ill., pilot of the plane and president of Jack's Foods, Inc., of South Bend and of Tasty Foods, Inc., Kansas City, Kas.

Wyland Miller, 35, of Kansas City, Kas., vice president and general manager of the Kansas firm.

Darwin F. Rosebrook, 36 South Bend, secretary-treasurer of both the South Bend and Kansas City firms.

The single-engine four-passenger plane, which was almost out of gas, according to investigating police, crashed as it approached the airport runway at this Central Pennsylvania community. The plane clipped off the trunk of a tree in the orchard and plowed into a mud-hole beside a hog pen.

U.N. Renews Raids On Supply Roads

Seoul (AP) — U. S. fighter-bombers pounded heavily at Communist supply routes leading south from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang yesterday, and claimed at least 23 Red supply trucks were destroyed.

It was the first time since November, 1951 that all supply roads were fair game for Allied attack and fliers made the most of it.

Nomination Approved By 77 To 6 Vote

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower's controversial nomination of Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense was confirmed by the Senate yesterday, 77 to 6.

Wilson, retired president of General Motors, agreed to give up 2½ million dollars worth of stock in the automotive firm to qualify for the big Pentagon job.

His confirmation completes Eisenhower's Cabinet and ends a bitter 10-day dispute over whether Wilson, as former head of the nation's biggest defense contractor and with a huge financial stake in General Motors, is the right man for the defense post.

The White House said Wilson could not be sworn into office last night. It was uncertain when the ceremony will be held.

When word of his confirmation reached him, Wilson issued this statement:

"I shall do my best to serve and strengthen America and the free world in the role in which I have just been confirmed, not as a business man nor as a member of a particular party, but as one of many citizens in a great crusade that must not fail."

Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) opposed the appointment to the end, speaking against it for an hour and 45 minutes and then collapsing as he made his way into the Senate reading room. A doctor was called but Morse appeared to recover quickly.

In addition to Morse, who bolted the Republican party during the presidential campaign, Sen. Lehman (D-Lib.-N.Y.) and four Democrats voted against Wilson's confirmation.

The others were Senators Johnston of South Carolina, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia and Willis Smith of North Carolina.

The Senate GOP leadership got out 47 of the party's 48 Senate votes on the Wilson test. The only Republican absent was Sen. Jenner of Indiana, who was paired for confirmation. Twelve of the 47 Democrats were not present to vote.

Morse told the Senate Wilson doesn't possess "the 9th degree of ethical standards" that he believes are necessary for a secretary of defense spending billions in public money each year.

Lehman called the appointment "unfortunate" and one which "I believe will lead to loss of confidence in the Defense Department and less efficiency there."

But Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), the man who first publicly challenged Wilson's right to head the defense establishment while retaining his big interest in General Motors, said he thought Wilson had acted "with admirable patriotism" in agreeing to dispose of his stock.

Banker Enters Guilty Plea To $600,000 Fraud

Pittsburgh (AP) — A man who bought a bank with its own money and kept a $10,000 revolving fund for loans in the drawer of his desk pleaded guilty yesterday in U. S. District Court to embezzling $600,000.

He is Ludwig R. Schickel, 41-year-old former president of the Parnassus National Bank in nearby New Kensington.

When he comes up for sentencing Friday before Judge Wallace S. Gourley, Schickel faces a maximum of 45 years in prison and fines of $45,000.

Seeking leniency for his defalcations, which stretch back to 1936, the ex-banker declared:

"I never used any of the money for myself."

The money all went, Schickel said, to buy stock in the Parnassus bank, and other concerns and to make loans which he was afraid the bank's directors wouldn't approve.

Eisenhower Suffers Slight Cold, But Works On State Of Union Message To Congress

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower left his House desk at noon yesterday because of "a slight case of the sniffles," after arranging to be before Congress next Monday to deliver his State of the Union message.

The President's cold was described by an aide as "nothing serious," but on advice of his physician Eisenhower moved from his office in the west wing to his room in the White House proper.

Murry Snyder, assistant press secretary, said Eisenhower did not go to bed but worked in his room on the State of the Union address which he will deliver in person at a joint Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m. next Monday.

The decision on timing of the address—a general outline of the new administration's legislative program—was reached yesterday at Eisenhower's first formal meeting with Republican congressional leaders.

In another development, Eisenhower created a special committee to evaluate American psychological strategy in the cold war and to make recommendations for improving the program.

The committee is headed by William H. Jackson, New York investment banker who resides in Princeton, N. J., and is former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Eisenhower fixed a June 30 deadline for the committee's final recommendations and it then will be dissolved.

Because of his cold, Eisenhower scheduled no appointments for today except a previously arranged White House reception for the diplomatic corps at 4 p.m. He planned to continue work in his room on the State of the Union message.

Late yesterday, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the President's physician reported that he was "doing fine," and that he had advised him to leave his office so as "not to take any chances with all the flu that is going around."

The President's conference with congressional leaders started at 8:30 a.m. under the Eisenhower early-to-work routine, and lasted two hours.

The board is pretty one-sided at the moment," Taft said. He did not amplify this reference.

Other changes Taft proposed in a series of bills he introduced would require employers, as well as union officers, to file non-Communist affidavits with the NLRB, and more completely separate the functions of the NLRB's general counsel from those of the board itself.

Taft disclosed at a news conference that the Senate Labor Committee staff is studying how far the federal government has entered into the field of state legislation by application of the interstate commerce theory.

"The Supreme Court has gone so far as to almost say that the entire field of labor legislation has been pre-empted by the federal government," Taft observed.

"We've got to pass some sort of law to define the field so far as the states and federal governments are concerned. I don't imagine we'll do anything too quickly, but we're looking into it."

Taft, the Senate majority leader and a principal author of the Taft-Hartley Act passed in 1947, said he thought hearings on T-H changes would start sometime in February.

However, he said some changes might be worked out by union-management agreement.

15 Die In Crash

Rome (AP) — An Italian airliner, flying from Sardinia to Rome, crashed today, killing 15 passengers and four crew members aboard.

The plane, a Fiat CRJ, was carrying 19 passengers and four crew members. It crashed into the sea off the coast of Sardinia.

The crash occurred about 10 miles from the coast. The plane was flying at a low altitude when it crashed.

The cause of the crash is not yet known. Investigators are working to determine the exact cause of the accident.

The crash is the deadliest in the airline's history.

The airline is a private company.

The crash occurred on a busy day for the airline.

The governor, mindful of defeat of his income tax bill in a year-long 1951 session, avoided recommendations for specific new taxes. Instead, he offered to cooperate with the Legislature "to hold the fairest possible tax program."

Fine, in personally submitting the 1953-55 state budget to a joint session of the House and Senate, told the lawmakers that "a paramount question in this session is providing the amount of funds needed for a balanced budget."

That amount, the governor said, has been fixed at 197 million dollars, adding:

"After a study of the budget you may arrive at some other amount."

Republicans, after hearing the governor's budget message, were enthusiastic in their approval. Democrats, however, took an attitude of wait and see.

The Assembly did little else but receive the budget as it reconvened after a three-weeks' recess.

Fine termed the bulky document allocating the state's revenues for the next two years to governmental activities "a fair and minimum budget." At the same time, he invited both the legislature and the general public to point out any non-essential item.

"To levy additional taxes on our people when they now carry a burden under which they must make many sacrifices is a serious matter," the governor said.

"Before you do so you should be convinced that every dollar of appropriations recommended in this budget is essential. My outstanding aim has been to prepare a minimum budget."

"I invite your examination of every appropriation recommended to determine whether I have accomplished that purpose. I will give you my full cooperation in such an examination of the budget as will every department and agency under my jurisdiction."

The over-all budget of $1,428,777,543 compared to $1,307,942,617 for the present 1951-1952 biennium, an increase of $120,834,926. The over-all figure was reached by the total of the general fund, from which normal operating expenses are paid, and various special funds, such as the motor fund which is used exclusively for highway and bridge work.

For the first time in the state's history the general fund needs passed the billion dollar mark in the 1953-55 biennium. That total including the $157 million recommended in new revenue reached $1,003,899,386, compared to $903,279,378 for the 1951-53 biennium.

Fine said the commonwealth will have a surplus of $9,827,000 at the end of the current biennium, May.

Truman Offered Half Million For Memoirs

Kansas City, (AP) — Negotiations were under way by friends yesterday looking to the publication of Harry S. Truman's memoirs at a figure that will enable him to pursue a life of complete freedom as the Democratic party's elder statesman.

A New York publishing firm has offered to pay a sum expected to run in excess of a half a million dollars over a period of several years for the memoirs and Truman also will be assured substantial extra income by making carefully-selected lecture engagements on topics of his own choosing.

Matthew J. Connelly, Truman's No. 1 secretary at the White House until last Tuesday, is here with his "boss" carrying on discussions with Truman friends and negotiators.

Rubinstein Given Another Stay

Washington (AP) — For the fourth time in four weeks, the U.S. Court of Appeals yesterday stepped between Serge Rubinstein and immigration inspectors who want to seize him on a deportation warrant.

The court directed that no action be taken toward revoking the bail of the Russian-born financier or taking him into custody pending its further order.

The court's decision came after Rubinstein's lawyers had argued that the government had not shown sufficient cause for his deportation.

The court's decision is a temporary stay.

Members of the church's Dorcas Welfare Society spent 346 hours in volunteer service during the year. Mrs. Esther Drake, leader of the group reported. There were 249 persons given aid, while 966 articles of clothing were distributed locally, as well as 255 articles of necessity which were sent to Kansas and other stricken areas.

He also urged members to "cultivate a spirit of devotion, faithfulness in Bible study and willingness to serve."

State Asked To Erect Road Marker

The Board of Governors of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club at a meeting last night voted to request Arthur Dinstel, county superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, to place a danger sign at the top of Foxtown Hill.

Truckers requested the motor club to take this action governing westbound traffic on the highway for protection of motorists not acquainted with the area, it was reported to the club. It was explained this would be notice to shift into a lower gear. The area is the scene of many motor accidents, it was pointed out.

There were also reports that the "No Passing" regulations on the highway by motorists moving in both directions were constantly violated and police action was suggested.

Mrs. Cynthia Watt, secretary-manager of the club, will attend the secretaries' conference of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation at Harrisburg Feb. 5, 6 and 7. The local office will be open during the period.

Fine Submits $1.5 Billion Budget, Calls For New Taxes

31. This means that much less of a tax burden in the next biennium.

The state debt is at an all-time high of $469,277,401 without counting 315 millions in obligations of the General State Authority and the Highway and Bridge Authority.

The budget made no provision for meeting a demand by teachers for a $200 cost of living salary increase this year.

The budget contained no allocations for new building construction at state schools and institutions but the governor indicated he would recommend to the assembly later an increase in the borrowing power by the General State Authority to finance some of the most urgently needed ones.

"I don't think the legislature will be in a frame of mind to finance improvements from the general fund," Fine said in explaining that situation.

The governor said the amount of increase of the authority's present 235 million dollar borrowing power would depend upon reports of study committees now at work. He noted they include a survey of the state's prison system started after riots at the Western State Penitentiary and the Rockview State Prison.

The budget noted construction requests totaling $208,968,294, which were excluded from the budget for the later recommendation. They included $156,541,052 for welfare institutions; $37,578,242 for state teachers colleges and other state-aided educational institutions and $14,849,000 for the Pennsylvania State College.

The governor, supporting his statement of "a fair and minimum budget," said he cut 66 million from requests by various departments for budget allocations.

He recommended re-enactment for another two years of various "temporary" taxes including the "package" of levies substituted in 1951 for the rejected flat income tax. Among those taxes were a real estate transfer tax and a six mill levy on buses.

The governor budgeted 15 million for a cost-of-living increase of about 10 per cent of the state's 60,000 workers.

"We want to keep state expenditures at a minimum," Fine said, "but at the same time I believe we should see to it that state employees receive fair compensation in relation to the increased cost-of-living."

An additional allocation of two million would have to be made in the motor fund if 200 state policemen are added to the present 1,300-member force.

"There is no more important state activity than promoting safety on our highways," Fine said. "Our state police are doing an excellent job with the 1,300 men now assigned to patrolling our 41,000 miles of state highways. But there are not enough men available to cope with the great increase in traffic that has come about in the last few years."

Most of the 100 million increase in appropriations, the governor said, resulted from legislation already enacted. They include $1 million for education, seven million for General State authority rentals; $800,000 for nurses training; 3 million for school health examinations and $442,000 for increased salaries for the judiciary.

19-Year-Olds To Be Called For Physicals

An undisclosed number of 19-year olds will be among 30 men from Selective Service Board 105, Stroudsburg, scheduled for pre-induction physical examinations at Wilkes-Barre Induction Station Feb. 11.

An official of the local board said yesterday the number of teenagers in the fitness draft will be known later when selections are made. A total of 1,489 men from Northeastern Pennsylvania region are subject to call in this latest physical examination.

Stroudsburg board will send 12 men to Wilkes-Barre on February 10 for induction. A total of 794 draft registrants will leave with the Wilkes-Barre detachment for service in the Armed Forces.

education received $506,535,000 or 50.84 per cent of the billion dollar general fund budget. The combined estimates of public health, assistance and welfare were second with $201,554,000 or 20.06 per cent. That gave those activities almost 80 per cent of the general fund budget.

While education costs increase, the governor noted a cut in appropriations for public assistance of 22 million dollars from 133 million in 1951-53 to 111 million in 1953-55.

In making that cut, Fine said it assumes that present employment conditions will remain favorable and that increased efforts will be made "to eliminate fraud and public assistance payments to anyone not entitled to them."

"Moreover we contemplate enactment of strong non-support laws which surveys in some counties indicate will bring substantial savings."

No appropriation was recommended for state television education but Fine said the assembly should keep in touch with that situation.

"The Federal Communications Commission reserved four channels for Pennsylvania for educational use and in doing so set a deadline of June 2, 1953, for acceptance of those channels," Fine said. "Therefore it is imperative that we give this matter constant attention and arrive at a decision before that time."

Boushell Tells Police Chief He Can't Recall How Or Why He Went To Island In Creek

An interview with George Clifford Boushell, 30-year-old man who was rescued from Brodheads Creek above the inter-borough bridge Sunday night, failed to show how or why the Stroudsburg resident reached the island, James McConnell, chief of police said last night.

According to the Stroudsburg police chief, Boushell told him he can't remember how he got to the small island in the middle of the creek or for what reason he went there.

McConnell said Boushell told him he recalls being at a local club Sunday night but the interim incidents until he was rescued at 9:45 p.m. are blank.

Boushell said his first recollection after the club was that two men reached out and grabbed him and pulled him into a boat. Chief McConnell said he assumed Boushell referred to William Coolbaugh, policeman and Thomas DeVivo who manned a small boat to bring Boushell from the chilled, raging waters.

Interviewed in his room at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg Boushell was reported in good condition. McConnell said Boushell's both legs appear to be injured but X-rays failed to reveal any fracture. The injury, McConnell said, evidently was exposure to the cold waters.

Chief McConnell said he would continue the investigation today.

The following members of Explorer Post 88, Stroudsburg, did the job: James Ifft, Robert Wildrick, Robert Schell, Peter Groner, Robert Forney, Earland Clark, Floyd Frisbie, Michael Cohen. Three Dances To Benefit Polio Fund

Three dances are scheduled as polio benefits this week.

The first will be Wednesday night at Chestnut Hill High School auditorium—round and square dancing.

This is the bi-monthly teenage dance, but it was planned especially to put the proceeds from this one toward the polio fund. No admissions has been charged for the dances in the past; this time it will cost each person a dime.

The dance will be sponsored and chaperoned by the West End Progressive Women's Club.

Thursday night at Barrett Township High School the Rotary Club of the Pocono Mountains will sponsor a square and round dance at 8:30 p.m.

Admissions will swell the polio fund. Music will be by the Earl Wolf trio, and there will be cake walks and door prizes. In charge will be: Alfred J. Ravelli, president; Thomas Lewis, general dance chairman; Joe Wiley, music; Jack Zink, refreshments; Jack Rush, tickets; Vance Megargle Jr., ticket distribution; Andrew Lewis, publicity.

Elks Club, East Stroudsburg, will put on their dance Saturday, the closing day of the 1953 polio campaign. The admission charge will be 50 cents a person, with all of the admission fees going toward the polio campaign fund. Elks will furnish the music and entertainment at club expense. Elks and their friends may attend the square dance.

A cake walk also is planned, with the cakes contributed by the wives of members.

Victory Over Polio Nearer

"These Americans are a peculiar people," Alexis de Tocqueville told his fellow Frenchmen. "When some citizen in a community decides that something is needed, he thereupon communicates this sense of need to his neighbors. Promptly a committee is brought into existence. And, in a very short time this committee has begun to meet the need. All of this is done without reference to any official or any bureaucracy."

This statement was made by the great student of democracy in 1832. It could serve very well as a capsule description of the fight launched against polio through the March of Dimes.

While the human impulse behind the March of Dimes is not unique in America, the type of voluntary, non-governmental organization represented by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is uniquely American. Nowhere else in the world can its counterpart be found.

Across the broad expanse of this nation and in the far-flung reaches of its possessions and territories, a determined people have banded together voluntarily in 3,100 chapters—joined hands, as it were, in the mounting battle against a crippling disease.

It matters not at all that a certain county in Montana hasn't had a polio case within the memory of its oldest citizen. Nor does it matter that a rural county in Missouri raises less than $300 in the March of Dimes while a populous county in Ohio contributes over $400,000. They are all pooling the fruits of their hearts and their hands in a massive cooperative assault on this menace to every American home wherever that home may be.

It has been said often in this connection that polio is a national problem. It may very well be that it is an international one as well. Because, once the problem is solved in this country it will be only a matter of time before the entire world is freed of this disease.

Yes, Americans who came to the rescue of a Japan rocked by earthquake in 1923, who sent millions of tons of food and clothing to a war-torn Europe in 1920; whose contributions to CARE have totaled more than $125,000,000—these hardheaded people have reason to hope that they are on the threshold of one of the greatest contributions to mankind everywhere—the conquest of polio.

We urge all those who care about mankind to join the March of Dimes—to hasten that great day.

We urge all citizens of Monroe County who care about mankind to turn on their porch lights tonight—to hasten that great day.

Arthur, Not Santa

Well-intentioned, givers sometimes can get innocent folks into trouble. As witness we offer the sheriff of Loudoun County, Va., whose office needed a police radio system and couldn't afford to buy it. A citizen bought it for the sheriff on the condition his name wouldn't be disclosed.

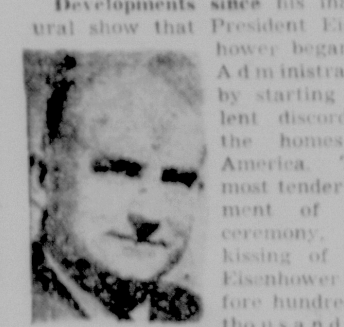

The county supervisors, however, demanded to know who the good Samaritan was. When the sheriff refused to tell them, they turned down his request for an extra night guard at the jail and gave the sheriff's two deputies salary raises, while holding up action on a raise for the sheriff.

The poor sheriff finally told the Samaritan his sad story and got permission to disclose that the donor was TV star Arthur Godfrey, who owns a farm in the county. All of which goes to show that Mr. Godfrey has a heart of gold, but he shouldn't have expected country folks to believe in Santa Claus.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Dwight Brings On A War

Developments since his inaugural show that President Eisenhower began his Administration by starting violent discord in the homes of America. The most tender moment of the ceremony, his kissing of Mrs. Eisenhower before hundreds of thousands of Washington spectators and 70,000,000 video fans, is still causing the greatest firestorm in generations. The demand "Why aren't you as sweet to me as that?" has been heard by countless husbands ever since. As a new week began, the country was still being split by the effort to come up with the right answers.

It was a touching and memorable moment when Ike, as almost his first official act, strode to Mamie's side and embraced her. It sent a tingle down spines (via the outdoor aerials). He had fired the kiss heard 'round the world. And the repercussions still show no signs of abating. Wives everywhere—in the teeming cities, in the mountain shacks and the prairie cabins—were thrown into a mood in which they swiftly checked on their own home life and came up with a decision their husbands lacked tenderness in the pinches "Would you have thought of that?" "Why aren't you like Ike?" "Do you realize you never act that way?" etc. etc.

"What's so wonderful about the President kissing his wife? Did you expect him to walk over and take a punch at her?" we demanded when our misbegotten critical.

"There you go again being cynical," she replied. "It was a beautiful thing. . . the high spot of the whole inaugural."

"What about the parade?" we asked.

"It didn't finish even a close second to Ike's kiss," the wife snapped. "He is going to make a truly great President."

"Why? Just because he kissed his wife. It was a quickie at that."

"It was longer than the kind I last got from you," the missus wept. "You could see he loved his wife. There he was taking the highest office in the land . . . bands playing, crowds cheering, the whole country watching history in the making . . . and he let it play second fiddle to his love for Mamie!"

"Listen, honey, the kiss wasn't that significant," we argued. "You want a kiss? Just say so." (This was the wrong remark entirely.)

"Don't be silly. I would just like to feel that whenever something important happens to you in your work you think of me," she said.

"Okay. From now on, baby, after every promotion at the office I'll hurry home and see that you get a kiss."

Now the little woman burst into tears. All we could get from her sobbing were exclamations that sounded like, "What a President! . . . True nobility of character! . . . Lucky Mamie!"

"Look," we protested, "if I ever get to be President I'll rush over to you, hold you in my lap and make with the Kiss of Fire." The little woman was not convinced. She drew us with the parting shot: "You're just not a REAL REPUBLICAN, THAT'S ALL!"

There's talk of building a new wing on the White House, just in case all of Ike's family comes to dinner. . . . Whatever became of TV's pledge to tone down the crime and horror films? . . . Asked if she wanted to see the film "Androcles and the Lion," Ima Dado replied, "Who wants to see a film with just one lion after Quo Vadis?" . . . They say ex-President Truman may go to Africa. . . . Still thinks he can shoot elephants, eh? . . . Don't miss Charlie Laughton's readings on TV. . . . They're wonderful. . . . Can you remember away back when porters met railroad trains?

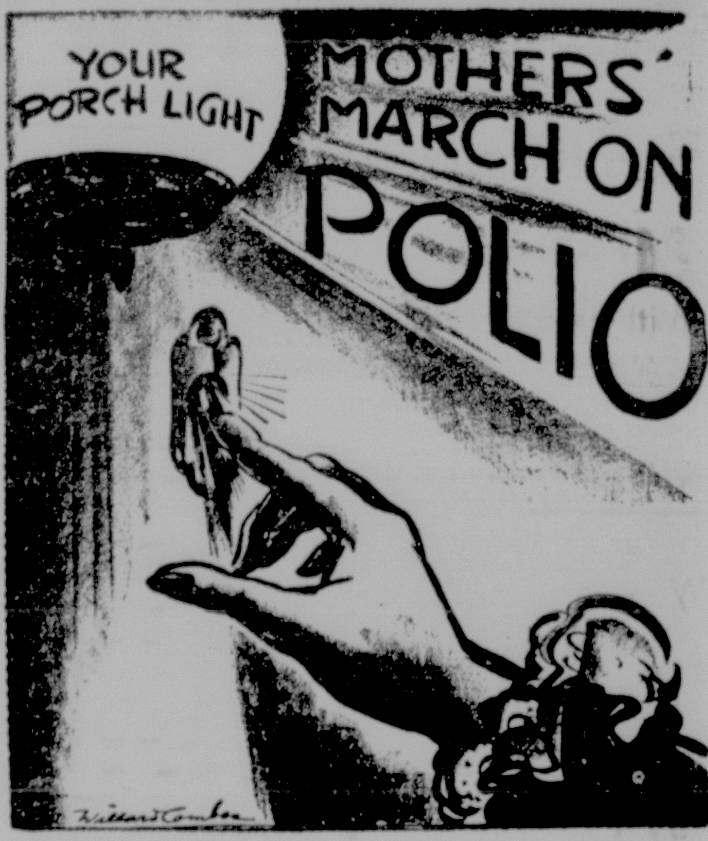

Vanishing Americans
"The Democrats are too strongly entrenched. Ya can never get 'em out."

"Whatever became of Hoover?"
"The days of sound bookkeeping are over."

Business Leaders To Advise Congress On Money Matters

Robert S. Allen Reports - - - By Robert S. Allen

Washington — Something new has been added to the two most important committees in Congress — Appropriations, which passes on all government spending, and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which formulates the laws that collect the money to be spent.

To assist these committees in doing their work in this Congress, they are adding to their already-large permanent staffs a number of corporation officials as part-time assistants.

The function of these business experts is to help write the new tax and spending measures that Congress will adopt this year.

The inside word on Capitol Hill is that as many as 50 businessmen will be brought to Washington by the two committees to aid them in dealing with the new budget and various tax problems.

Foremost among them is the hotly controversial issue of the excess profits tax which expires June 30. Businessmen, generally, are strongly insistent this tax be dropped. That will happen automatically unless Congress specifically votes to continue the law.

The business advisers will serve the committees in various capacities. Some will be paid a salary; others will receive only their expenses; and a third group will work without payment of any kind. In governmental terminology this category is known as "WOC"—without compensation.

Authority for this information is Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.), of the House Appropriations Committee, and largely instrumental in adding the business executives to the committee staffs. Taber is saying that whatever money is required for these advisers will be well spent.

Taber has worked out an arrangement with Sen. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, to use the same business assistants.

The Joint Taxation Committee, headed by Sen. Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.), is bringing in its own advisers.

Among those already working with the Appropriations Committee are—Wallace Reich, U. S. Rubber Co.; Arthur Hall, Consolidated Edison Co., Detroit; Edwin Krasch, Haskins & Sells, New York City; Frank Walsh, Prudential Insurance Co.

Those advising the Joint Taxation Committee include—Montgomery Angel, of the John W. Davis law firm; A. R. Marrs and W. T. Sherwood, tax attorneys for a number of corporations.

Note: The Joint Taxation Committee has held two secret sessions on the bill sponsored by Rep. Carl Curtis (R., Neb.) to make the Internal Revenue Bureau an independent agency. At present, it is part of the Treasury Department. The proposed change would make possible a big change in Revenue personnel and throw open scores of jobs that were put under Civil Service in the reorganization the Democrats started last year.

European problems won't be the only ones discussed by Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Stassen when they fly there later this week.

On their agenda is a far-reaching proposal regarding the Far East that was left for them to grapple with by their Democratic predecessors.

This behind-the-scenes plan calls for creating a new organization that would coordinate all anti-Communist military operations in Asia.

Headquarters of this Military Council, as it is being called in inner circles, would be in Singapore. Primary function of the council would be to formulate strategy and plans to combat Communist aggression and sub-influences. Top official would be an American, but he would not command troops as does Gen. Matthew Ridgway as head of NATO in Europe.

The secret proposal was submitted to former Secretary Dean Acheson when he attended the meeting of the NATO Council in Paris early in December. It was put up to him by the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand.

They strongly urged the plan as a supplement to ANZUS—Defense Alliance of Australia, New Zealand and the U. S.

Britain and France are presently excluded from this organization, although both are waging active war against Communist aggressors in the Far East; Britain in Burma and Malaya, France in Indo-China, and both in the war in Korea.

Acheson expressed approval of the new plan, but pointed out it would be up to the Eisenhower Administration to act on it. He agreed to turn over a memorandum prepared by the foreign ministers to Dulles and Stassen. They have studied this document and discussed it with Acheson and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The latter favor the proposal, but are warning it must not be permitted to supersede ANZUS in importance.

Ike's Cabinet Learning There'll Be No 'Yes' Attitude In Congressional Committee

These Days - - - - - By George Sokolsky

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The Eisenhower Administration starts with a Cabinet that includes a number of businessmen of proved ability. The design is for a business administration operated by competent managerial capacity. However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the type of questioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee. It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super-billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the businessmen, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his Cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a representative and every six years for a senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either house, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November, 1954.

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr. Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest of big business.

Such a campaign argument might be very telling. During the next two years, each of these Cabinet officers and all the other top officials—some 600 of them—will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

The success of this administration will, in a measure, depend upon how effectively these men appear to the public in the circumstances of a Congressional hearing. They will not be protected by expensive counsel and public relations men. They will not be permitted to believe that a good job done is a criterion for courteous consideration. The Democrats will be working to win the campaigns of 1954 and 1956 and the Cabinet members and their associates will have to be very fast on their feet, as it were, to make the grade. There will be no "yes, sir" attitude in a Congressional committee.

It is an advantage to this country that the top men of management should transfer their services to the government. They can accomplish a great deal in developing efficient and competent administration. They can save the country billions of dollars.

But they will have to learn to adjust their minds from business management to government management, which is altogether different. They are entitled to a grace of time to make such an adjustment. And such an adjustment has to be made if the Eisenhower Administration is to hold its popularity with the people. For even as industry would say "the customer is always right," so, in politics, it is correct to say that the voters have the final say.

I just heard one of those hi-falutin' panel shows on the radio.

It was one of those affairs where 2 learned college professors talk about things they don't know anything about, because there ARE subjects in this world about which even the most erudite person knows NOTHING.

They were discussing culture and civilization. The idea was to find an answer to the question how history in 100 or 200 or 1,000 years from now will evaluate 1952. Fortunately they didn't say 1953, because, after all, 1953 is only a month old. These fellows were perfectly willing to talk about centuries hence, since nobody would be able to check them on it. Only very few of us will be alive in 2053.

Well, the professors talked about our "highly developed civilization." They mentioned radio and television, electric lights and deep freezers, and all the other great discoveries and inventions by which we have "mastered nature."

They were sitting in a warm studio in New York City and I doubt whether they had ever spent a real winter in the country. I was thinking of the ice storm we had in Connecticut and how, almost in a flash, CIVILIZATION suddenly disappeared and we were back just about where our forefathers were 100 years ago.

Two platoon system in football. Old Jim was a whole platoon himself.

Speaking of football, Milt, the sterling printer man, wants to know where they get this "free substitution" stuff. Some of those substitutes, says Milt, cost the school a four-year scholarship plus pocket money!

The weather had turned even colder. The freezing rain had covered everything with ice.

No deliveries of any kind. No newspapers. Nothing. We went out with a bucket to break off some icicles in order to have a little water.

And so it went for four days—completely isolated, back in the pioneer days, but without the pioneers' hardiness and spirit.

We were thinking of going to New York and staying in a hotel. But we could not get to the railroad station. So we just stayed on. And I assure you we didn't give a continental how the people would appraise our civilization 100 years from now. All we wanted was a little sunshine and electricity.

The Scandal of New York: The St. Atty confirmed our tip (of a week ago) that the gunmen who shot Col. S. Rosenblatt were known and that the story would astonish the town. A sure bet is that D.A. Frank Hogan will establish a link between the would-be assassins and the Eleanor Morgan Satterlee will case . . . Mrs. Satterlee's will gave Rosenblatt (her friend and lawyer) about $200,000, not $200,000 as reported . . . A parade of lawyers for the deceased woman's sister (Mrs. Mabel Ingalls) will be requested to explain what they know about a Bostonian—suspected of hiring the hoodlums to "get rid" of Rosenblatt . . . Mrs. Ingalls, who inherited $4,500,000 (on the death of her sister, Mrs. Satterlee), once was wed to Abbott Ingalls, an exec at the State Dept. . . . Mrs. Ingalls was the first American woman to visit Moscow after the Revolution—about 1919 . . . She now is Asst. Director of the World Health Organization at the United Nations . . . The multi-millionaire gets a plump salary, staff and office (plus world travel) at the taxpayers' expense. Her qualifications for this job mystify all who have tried to check on the person in the Truman Administration who recommended her . . . Senators, Congressmen, newspapers, and sleuths have not been able to get access to Gov't files on how she got the UN job. She is a member of the J. P. Morgan family . . . Corliss Lamont, a pro-Red-fronter (whose pop was a Morgan partner), may be asked to solve that angle . . . The law-enforcers, the newspapers, and the victim (Rosenblatt) are challenged by the Curtain of Gold that has descended on this case.

Sallies In Our Alley: Fort Worth's Billionaire Sid Richardson waited 20 years and gave considerable coin to help the GOP get back into the White House. A judge in Louisiana listened intently to a car theft case tried in his court and then instructed the jury to bring in a verdict exonerating the defendant. When the jury filed back into the courtroom, the foreman accordingly arose and announced, "Your Honor, we find that your nephew, who stole that car, is definitely not guilty."

"Mr. Gotrocks," said the doctor mournfully, "it would not be fair of me to conceal from you your true condition. You are beyond any help I could render you and should prepare to meet your Maker. COP Leaders To Introduce Major Bills

Harrisburg (AP) — Rep. Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean), Republican floor leader told the House last night a bill to revise Pennsylvania's 79-year-old Constitution will be introduced "very early—perhaps tomorrow."

Johnson made the statement in answer to a query on the floor from Rep. H. A. Andrews (D-Cambria), Democratic floor leader.

In answer to other questions by Andrews, Johnson told the House: "There will be an FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) bill but when it will be I frankly don't know."

"As to legislative reapportionment, an answer on that will be given at an early date. As of this moment there hasn't been any crystallized opinion on that."

The administration sought at the 1951 session to set up machinery to revise the state's fundamental law but the issue got lost in the year-long fight over Gov. John S. Fine's defeated income tax bill.

The House several times has passed legislation banning job discrimination because of race, color or creed but the bill died through lack of action in the Senate. Such legislation is backed by the administration as a pledge of the Republican platform.

Fine, in his message at opening of the 1953 session on Jan. 6, urged the legislature to re-apportion its own districts on basis of the 1950 census.

Andrews said House Democrats would press for early enactment of all three measures.

He said the Democrats would oppose "any broadening of the present tax structure until the people have had a chance to vote on a new Constitution."

"As to FEPC," Andrews said, "the 98 Democratic representatives would move to discharge it from committee eight days after it has been introduced."

"There is no reason why an FEPC bill should be a matter of bargaining," he said.

IKE'S CABINET-The Job and the Man

4---Attorney General Herbert E. Brownell, Jr.

Department of Justice is housed in this beautiful structure on Constitution avenue.

By H. D. CRAWFORD

Washington—The attorney general of the United States has been aptly described as "the People's attorney," since he is chief legal adviser of the federal government. The Justice department has been under fire of criticism for many months, and as Herbert E. Brownell, Jr., named by Dwight D. Eisenhower for attorney general, takes over his post he is expected to prove top "clean-up man" for the new administration.

The far-famed Federal Bureau of Investigation is under the Justice department. One of Brownell's first actions after being designated as the new attorney general was to announce that he and the then President-elect wished J. Edgar Hoover to remain as FBI director.

The attorney general renders legal opinions to the President and heads of the executive departments. He is top administrator of the Justice department. Historically, the post of attorney general dates back to 1789, with Edmund Randolph, of Virginia, as the first attorney general. Brownell will be the 62nd.

Although the attorney general has always been a member of the President's Cabinet, he was not made head of an executive department until 1870 when the Department of Justice was established.

Numerous other duties fall on the shoulders of the attorney general. He handles certain matters pertaining to national defense. He directs 26 federal penal institutions, ranging from juvenile training schools to penitentiaries and Alcatraz. He supervises the work of United States attorneys and marshals.

The attorney general approves abstracts of title for land the government acquires for parks, buildings, or armed forces installations. He supervises litigation in civil or criminal courts in cases involving the government.

The attorney general sometimes represents the United States personally in the United States Supreme Court in important cases. He also provides special counsel for the United States when desired.

The Justice department's present beautiful $12 million building—the world's largest law office—was completed in 1934. It is headquarters for a staff of 33,000 persons throughout the nation and its territories.

The solicitor-general is the second-ranking Justice official. Other key aides are the deputy attorney general, nine assistant attorneys general, the FBI director, the Federal Bureau of Prisons director, the pardon attorney, the Immigration and Naturalization Service commissioner, the Board of Immigration Appeals, the Federal Board of Parole, and the executive assistant to the attorney general. Justice officials also include 94 United States attorneys and 94

United States marshals, each with assistants or deputies and clerical staffs.

Brownell, born nearly 49 years ago in Peru, Neb., has long been associated closely with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in New York and national politics. Republican big-wigs regard him as one of their most astute political strategists.

An honors graduate of Yale Law school, Brownell has been a member of New York law firms since the late 1920's. He served in New York's assembly from 1933 to 1937. He managed Dewey's drive for the New York governorship in 1942 and for the presidential nomination in 1944 and 1948. Brownell was Republican national chairman from 1944 to 1946.

Brownell was a key strategist in the nomination and election of Mr. Eisenhower. Shortly after his designation on Nov. 21 as attorney general, Brownell announced that he would carry out Mr. Eisenhower's orders "to conduct my office without partiality to any group or section, in fairness and justice to all the people of our country."

Americans expect that of their Department of Justice.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody took turns looking at the thermometer yesterday morning, because they wouldn't believe you could be so cold and the mercury stand so high. However, that wind whisked away any body heat you might have stored up, whisked the heat right up the chimney and set the teeth to chattering.

Such a Winter! What with floods to fill cellars, ice storms to break trees, warm rains to make mudholes of the walks, cold winds to nip your ears, everybody's getting cold, flu, virus or just plain cranky.

It isn't as if we'd had very much proper Winter only a little ice for skating during the Christmas holidays, and not enough snow for sledding—only for skidding.

It's really much too early to start being tired of Winter, but with all these people off for the South you begin to turn slightly green with envy.

Maybe it's the fact that this is the fourth week without too many regular meetings—maybe if we'd concentrate on the big events coming along. Cornelia Stabler Gilling at Kiwanis on Wednesday, the SPCA card party on Thursday, the Ann Logan card party on February 9, the Firemen's Dance on February 13, the—

Winter Fruit Desserts Add Springtime Zest

By Cecily Brownstone
(Associated Press Food Editor)

Here are two desserts that will go well after a cold weather meal. Serve the Peach-Crumble Treat after a beef or lamb stew; the Cherry Nut Cake will be delicious after a Friday supper of hearty fish and potato chowder and a salad.

Peach-Crumble Treat
Ingredients: 1 No. 2½ can cling peach halves, 1 cup enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons brown sugar.

Method: Drain peaches and place in dessert dishes. Prepare crumbs by pulling day-old bread into small pieces with fingers. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan; stir in cinnamon. Toss crumbs in cinnamon butter until lightly browned; sprinkle sugar over crumbs and toss well. Spoon hot crumbs into peach halves and serve at once with whipped cream. Makes 8 or 9 1-peach servings.

Cherry Nut Cake
Ingredients: ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ cup chopped walnuts or pecans, 1 cup cherry preserves, 1 cup pancake ready-mix, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk.

Method: For the topping, melt butter in a 10-inch skillet with a heat-resistant handle or in a baking pan. Mix in brown sugar, cinnamon and nuts. Top with cherry preserves. Prepare cake batter by combining last 4 ingredients in a medium-sized bowl and mixing well. Do not overbeat. Pour batter over cherry mixture. Bake in moderate (375F) oven 20 to 25 minutes. Invert and serve warm with whipped cream if desired.

BBYO, New Youth Group, Has Dance At Temple Israel

The B'Nai Brith Youth Organization, now in the process of being organized at the Temple Israel, held their first social affair on Sunday afternoon.

Although the young people were disappointed that invitations they had sent to similar BBYO groups in other communities, somehow had gone astray, they had a good time with local guests they had invited.

Some of the adults joined them to swell the crowd. There was dancing to the music of an orchestra, and refreshments were served.

Plans were made for five or six of them to attend the Saturday sessions of a three-day convention being held by BBYO in Allentown, when they hope to establish contacts with the other groups, and learn more about the program of the group, which is under the auspices of B'Nai Brith.

Wyckoff

SHOPPER

It's strange, but perhaps it's good too, that our attitudes toward others are influenced to such a great extent by the things that happen to us personally. There was a time when I might have been a bit suspicious of a co-worker, absent two Saturdays in a row because of "illness." Hm, I might have thought, that was convenient. But never again. After all, it's happened now to me, and it wasn't convenient—anything but. One fact remains, however—if the Shopper isn't in her usual space next Monday morning, you can safely draw two conclusions: she has by then become suspicious even of herself, and she is expecting a pink slip in her next pay envelope.

Arthur Widmer finally returned from Florida yesterday only to find a bathing-suited mannequin occupying his swivel chair, under a big palm tree. I must say that Arthur's tan went beautifully with the nautical settings, which included water, star fish and other creatures of the briny deep. Yes, Florida is much with us! Comes a card from Mae Smith of our corset department, who is wintering in Orlando, telling of beautiful, balmy weather, plus word from Beatrice Gorgy and Laura Fabel, of our handbags and hosiery departments, that they are planning a two-weeks southern vacation in mid-February. Now, girls, what about new suitcases of Samsonite, some bathing suits, and several lovely new dresses? . . . On a jaunt through the main floor yesterday, I saw Dottie Dunn selecting her new spring bonnet—a pert sailor of navy blue in very fine straw with a flower of pearl-type staves at the side. Cute girl, cute hat—a Dot with dash . . . While we're talking hats, it's only fair to say that some of the other new arrivals in our millinery department are equally smart. What's more, many of them are very inexpensive. There is one sugar shell scoop in fine, navy straw with velvet trim at a mere $5. (A lot of sugar for the price!) and a larger, pill box type at $3.98. How pretty can you be on a budget? That's the $64 question to which a lot of women are finding the answer everyday at Wyckoff's. . . . Yesterday was a busy day in our store. At nine o'clock there was a store-wide meeting at which Mr. Wyckoff introduced Edna Harmon, head of our jewelry department, as the chairman of Women's Days, to be observed next month. You'll be hearing more about that later. This is one promotion the public always loves, because we surely mix pleasure with business during that hectic, mad-happy time. Last year we had a Leap Year hat and a limerick contest, remember? Well, this year Blanche Mackey is in charge of contests, so they'll probably be more fun than ever. . . . Yesterday too Henry Kresge, our Sears manager, told me all the news of Sears activities for the year '53. What an exciting time it promises to be! Do read the ads, listen to your radio, and come in regularly to keep posted. Shopping at Wyckoff's can be such money-saving fun!

MOTHERS' MARCH ON POLIO

TONIGHT — 6:30 to 7:30

Mothers' March on POLIO

Mothers' March on POLIO

The Mothers' March on Polio, climax of the current March of Dimes campaign, will be staged in every community in Monroe County tonight, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club and aided by cooperating volunteers. Tied in with the Mothers' March on Polio will be the "porch light signal" system for every home in the county where occupants wish to give anything from dimes to dollars. All citizens are asked to turn on a porch light or provide some other suitable signal inviting humanitarian volunteer workers to their homes to receive their contributions. If you have no porch light, put a candle in the window; if you have no candle, tie a handkerchief or shoe on the door knob. Tonight's Mothers' March on Polio, is the climaxing activity of this year's March of Dimes. Contribute liberally, for upon the success of the 1953 March of Dimes will depend the adequate continuance of aid to those afflicted, and the intensifying of scientific programs aimed at ultimate conquest of infantile paralysis.

JOIN THIS MARCH ON POLIO! DIMES AND DOLLARS ARE NEEDED! YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS WILL HELP TO SAVE A LIFE... WILL HELP TO MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR THAT CHILD TO WALK AGAIN. (REMEMBER, IT COULD BE YOUR CHILD!)

This appeal on behalf of the Mothers' March on Polio is sponsored by:

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Basketball being played in the Lehigh Valley League this season is as unpredictable as any ever featured in this circuit and the wildest brand of play appears to be still in the future. Both new and old followers of the league are agreed that anything can and probably will happen this season, with half the campaign still to be played. However, right now the entire picture centers around the first half race, although each club has only one game remaining, except Stroudsburg and Palmerton, who finished their first half race last night.

Prior to last night's encounter on the W. Main St. court, Palmerton was deadlocked with Emmaus, Slatington and Whitehall for the top spot, each team having won four and lost two games. Palmerton's victory last night put the Blue Bombers one win up on the remainder of the field, but the other three clubs have one game remaining before the first half passes into history. Emmaus, Slatington and Whitehall have an opportunity to improve their title chances today, when the remainder of the Lehigh Valley League winds up the first half race.

It was only a week ago that Emmaus seemingly had the first half crown in its old kit-bag, with a mark of four victories and no setbacks. However, since that time the charges of Coach Ken Moyer have dropped two successive outings and are in bad shape at this time, unless the club can rally its forces and come through with a victory in tonight's outing. Whitehall is very fortunate to be in the title picture at this time, as the Zephyrs were extended to the very limit before bowing to Stroudsburg, on the W. Main St. court.

Joe Shea and John "Juice" Arnst were entertained royally at West Point last Saturday, when the East Stroudsburg High football tackles, along with about eight other gridiron hopefuls, got the once over from the Army coaching staff last Saturday. Coaches Jack Kist, Del Davis and Dick Forster made the trip with Shea and Arnst. The gridiron hopefuls worked out in gym shoes and shorts, playing basketball, running and in general, giving the coaching staff an idea as to just what sort of physical shape the former scholastic stars are in at the present time.

The East Stroudsburg party then watched the Army-Fordham basketball game, won by the Rams on the strength of a last period rally. Earl "Red" Black, head football coach and athletic director at West Point, attended the workout for a very few minutes, as the outstanding mentor was felled by an attack of the flu recently. The only bad thing about the entire trip is the fact that the weather was lousy, with a downpour of rain hanging over the party from start to finish.

Members of the Blue Mountain Umpires Association apparently enjoyed Sunday's clinic session in Pen Argyl very much. Joe Paparella, well known umpire in the American League, led a question and answer bee that was very popular among the 27 men in attendance. Anamolink didn't hold its scheduled business meeting on Sunday, due to the fact that only four members of the organization put in an appearance. However, the Pocono Mountains League entry is scheduled to try next Sunday for another meeting, with the affair slated to get underway at 8 p.m., at the home of Dave Besecker.

Although baseball seems months away at the present time, it actually is closer than most of us realize. Officers must be elected and plans formulated for the coming campaign long before pre-season practice gets underway. Teams in turn must present their list of officers to their respective leagues and there's usually a deadlock on this topic of business. So, it is obvious that these winter meetings are very necessary and they in turn must be well attended so as to construct a solid foundation for a good ball club to operate on during the summer months.

The Monroe County League is playing two makeup games of January 9 today. The January 9 slate was wiped off the books by an ice storm that spread itself dangerously over this area. Pocono and Barrett clash at Tannersville, while Coolbaugh and Chestnut Hill contest will be played at Tobyhanna. Polk and Tobyhanna Township High School will play their makeup game on Tuesday, February 17, on the Kresgeville court. Jim McCoolough, Allentown Central Catholic football coach is now listed as a candidate for the backfield coaching job left vacant at Lafayette when Nick Wasyluk resigned that post to take a similar position with the Baltimore Colts, recently readmitted to the National Professional Football League.

However, it wouldn't surprise this column one bit to see another well known coach in the Lehigh Valley area named to the now vacant Lafayette post. Guess who? ? ?

Palmerton Sinks Stroudsburg In Final Seconds, 50-47

Bombers Halt Late Surge By Mountaineers

Stroudsburg High's "tough luck" cage machine pressed another Lehigh Valley League foe to the very limits last night, but the result was an additional loss for the Mountaineers, this time a 50-47 setback at the hands of Palmerton, as the largest crowd of the campaign watched the action on the W. Main St. court. The setback was the seventh for Stroudsburg in the first half flag race.

Palmerton made a clean sweep of things by taking the Stroudsburg junior varsity into camp in the preliminary encounter, 51-47, despite the fact that Roy Nevil tallied 24 points in a losing cause, 18 of which came in the first half. Stroudsburg, last in the field of eight clubs in the standings, played like a determined band of cagers against the highly regarded Blue Bombers from Palmerton and once again threatened to pull the contest out of the fire in the last period, only to fail in the final seconds.

Palmerton used its height advantage to hold a very slim 12-11 edge over the Mountaineers at the end of the first period, but it was obvious at that early point that the charges of Coach Sam Russell were destined to push the invading pupils of Coach Vin Evans. However, Palmerton opened a gap of nine points in the second round, but the Mountaineers came back late in the period to narrow the margin to seven tallies. Palmerton led at halftime, 28-20, after holding a 16-9 advantage in the second stanza.

Rally Stroudsburg put another of its famous comebacks on the line in the second half and held an edge over the Bombers in both the third and fourth rounds, but not enough of a margin to spring one of the biggest upsets in an upset-minded Lehigh Valley League this season.

The Mountaineers held a 14-10 advantage in the third round, but the home town forces still trailed entering the home stretch, 38-34. Bill "Bump" Metzger, a recent addition to the Mountaineers, and Dick Hickey began to hit from the corners and from tough-angle shots from under the basket and the Mountaineers pulled into a 40-40 tie on a jump shot by Don Garaventi, with three and one-half minutes remaining on the official clock. The play was nip-and-tuck for the remainder of the distance, with never more than three points separating the two clubs and with one-point being the separation distance most of the last two minutes.

Palmerton did most of its damage in the late moments on foul shots, as the Bombers took advantage of rule infractions, while the Mountaineers pressed desperately to gain possession of the ball.

Stroudsburg made 11 of 22 foul shots, while Palmerton came through on 14 of 22 tosses from the same distance. Captain Al Adelmann, Hickey and Metzger were the big guns in a losing cause, with 12, 10 and eight points respectively, while Karl Weingartner was outstanding on defense for the Mountaineers.

Ed Shiner, "Sebo" Merics and "Toss" Oravice, the latter a sophomore, led the Palmerton offense with 13, 12 and 13 points respectively.

Bangor Fights Off Stubborn Pen Argyl

Bangor — Pen Argyl High, the club without a victory in the Lehigh-Northampton League during the first half of the campaign, pushed Bangor to a fourth quarter rally before the Slaters emerged on the long end of a 53-48 tabulation.

Pen Argyl suffered a double reversal when Bangor also won the junior varsity encounter, 63-46.

Bangor was forced to come from behind in the last period to pull

The green and white clad contingent jumped off to an 11-8 edge at the end of the first period and held a slim 23-22 advantage at the halfway mark.

Pen Argyl gained another point in the third quarter, 15-14, and held a two-point advantage going into the last round.

However, Bangor, paced by Jim Rowlands, came fighting from behind to dominate the last eight minutes, 17-10 and win by a margin of five points.

Bangor, forced to play without the services of Joe Heard, made only nine of 20 foul shots, while Pen Argyl hit on 22 of 39 tosses from the free-throw line.

Rowlands tallied 23 points on 10 field goals and three charity tosses, while every member of the Pen Argyl quintet broke into the scoring column for at least eight points.

Two Monroe County League Contests Listed On Agenda

Two Monroe County League basketball games will be played today, in an effort to make up ground that was lost earlier in the campaign. Both games being played today were originally listed for Friday, January 9, but were postponed because of a severe ice storm that swept over the area.

Barrett, currently tied for second place, with Polk, in the standings, will invade the home domain of Pocono High, at Tannersville. Barrett has won three out of four games, while Pocono has dropped three of four outings.

Chestnut Hill, searching for victory number one to go with four setbacks, will tangle with Coolbaugh High, on the latter's home court in Tobyhanna. Coolbaugh has won one of four games thus far this season.

Polk and Tobyhanna Township, also postponed on January 9, will make up that game on Tuesday, February 17.

In each case the junior varsity game begins at 7:15 p.m. and the main event approximately one hour later.

The Monroe County League is also listed for action on Friday, with Pocono at Barrett, Coolbaugh at Chestnut Hill and Polk at Tobyhanna Township.

Biggs' Restaurant Rallies In Last Period To Nip Sherman

Biggs' Restaurant produced a 10-point advantage during the last period at the Monroe County YMCA last night and with it earned a 73-67 Senior YMCA League victory over Sherman Theater.

Mangrum Wins Phoenix Open Golf Crown

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., won the $10,000 Phoenix Open, a Golf Tournament yesterday shooting a one-under par 70 for a 72-hole score of 272½.

Mangrum played a conservative game in the final stages, when it became apparent that his opposition could never catch him. He even went one over on the 18th hole in his cautious finish. His previous rounds were 71-69-63.

Mangrum's 272½ was 12 strokes under par for the Phoenix Country Club Course.

This was Mangrum's third-stroke triumph in five events this year.

Bad Round

Bo Winninger, Oklahoma City, who was four strokes back of Mangrum going into the final 18 holes, suffered a bad back nine and wound up with a 72 for 278 and a tie with Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y. The latter two had 66's.

Veteran Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N. Y., was next at 279 with a last-round 69.

Mangrum's victory was worth $2,000.

Jerry Barber, La Canada, Calif., with a 68, and Al Brock, Garden City, N. Y., with a 71, tied at 281.

At 283 were two-time winner Jimmy Demaret, Klamath Lake, N. Y., with a 70; Iverson Martin, Fort Worth, Tex., with a 66, and "Dutch" Harrison, Armore, Okla., with a 73.

Cary Middleoff, Memphis, and Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., with a pair of 71s, tied at par 284.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, won the low amateur laurels for the second year in a row. Frank shot a 66, the best round he's had this winter, for 285.

Lionel Hobert, young Pittsburgh pro, who was third behind the leader starting out at 209, failed to make a bid. He shot 76 to tie with Stranahan and Lew Worsham. Worsham had a 73.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., had a 286, good for $130.

Giambra Decisions Womber

Brooklyn, (AP)—Johnny Giambra, young Buffalo welterweight, punched his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Danny "Bang-Bang" Womber of Chicago in the feature at the Eastern Parkway Arena last night. Giambra weighed 155½, four pounds more than Womber.

In Charge The Buffalo battler took charge in the fifth round when he had Womber in trouble twice and was on top the rest of the way.

He scored consistently with left hooks to the head followed quickly by good right hands to the body. Taller and heavier than his foe, Giambra, nevertheless, was unable to find an opening for a knockout punch. There were no knockdowns.

Government Opens Suit Against Pros

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

Philadelphia (AP)—The government opened its anti-trust suit against the National Football League yesterday with a statement that it considered the NFL television restrictions clearly illegal because they deprive individual clubs of the right to make their own decisions.

In the course of an hour-long opening statement, W. Perry Epes, chief of the government's battery of legal talent, said there was no question of trying to force football teams to televise their games. It merely is a case of whether each should have the right to decide whether or not they will be televised.

Contention

In this instance, the government contends, the clubs can't decide for themselves because League Commissioner Bert Bell must approve all contracts. In addition the league's television rule—Article 10 of the constitution and by-laws—provides that no club may invade another's home territory with television.

These two facts make it a clear-cut case of unreasonable restraint of trade, according to the government. And the prosecution will attempt to show that the question of whether restraint is necessary or advisable doesn't enter into it.

However, that problem of whether the restraint is "reasonable" probably will be debated at considerable length.

U.S. District Judge Alan K. Grim indicated as much when he interrupted Epes' opening statement to inquire about the appeal procedure and whether the Supreme Court eventually will be called upon to decide questions of fact. Judge Grim is hearing the case without a jury.

Test

This is considered a "test" case which likely will serve as a precedent in future cases involving broadcasting and telecasting of sports events. And Judge Grim commented:

"Any finding I make on reasonableness may be awfully important."

As a test case, the proceedings are being watched carefully by baseball men and college football representatives. Present in court today were Robert Hall, chairman of the 1952 National Collegiate Athletic Association NCAA Television Committee, Asa Bushnell, NCAA television director, and Joseph L. Rauh of Washington, attorney for the NCAA Television Committee.

Judge Grim also raised the question of whether previous Supreme Court decisions that baseball is not engaged in interstate commerce didn't apply to football as well, but Epes contended that the broadcasting and television of games across state lines constitutes interstate commerce regardless of previous decisions.

The NFL attorneys, who passed up a chance to make their opening statement, have indicated they will argue that the clubs aren't engaged in interstate commerce.

Only five players in the game failed to account for points, as the scoring was comparatively evenly distributed.

Giants To Be Tough If Mays Returns

New York (AP)—If centerfielder Willie Mays obtains his Army discharge before the start of the baseball season, the New York Giants will be the team to beat for the 1953 baseball season, Manager Leo Durocher said yesterday.

"Willie is the key to our pennant chances," Durocher told reporters yesterday as he relaxed in the Giants' offices. "So much depends upon him. For instance, with Willie back, I could send Bobby Thomson to third, switch Alvin Dark to second and give this kid, Daryl Spencer, a shot at shortstop."

No Information
In Birmingham, Ala., where Mays is on a furlough, the Negro star said he had not received any answer regarding his request for discharge because of hardship. Mays claims to be the sole support of 12 dependents.

"They didn't tell me how long it would take before something is done on my request," he said. "I have no idea whether they will let me out."

Valo Comes To Terms

Philadelphia, (AP)—Elmer Valo, veteran outfielder from Palmerton, yesterday delivered a signed 1953 contract to General Manager Art Ebers of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Red Sox To String Along With Youth If Wins Come Regular

Boston, (AP)—With his pitching staff half shot and his veteran stars beginning to creak in the joints Boston Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau plans to emphasize youth come Spring.

"We'll go for youth as long as we can win," Boudreau told a gathering of baseball writers yesterday.

Firemen,
Koren's Five
Gain Verdicts

Stroudsburg Fire Department and Koren's Roofers were the big guns once again in the Biddy Basketball League yesterday, as the Firemen took the measure of Wyckoff-Sears, 24-20, while Koren's club was just able to outlast Stroudsburg Candyland, 25-23.

The Fire Department had to fight off a determined bid by Wyckoff-Sears in the last period to take home the bacon. The winning aggregation led 12-6 at the half-way mark.

Koren's Roofers used a second half advantage to gain the decision over Candyland, after the losing team led 16-11 at the half-way mark. The score was tied at 19-all at the three-quarter mark.

Dick Seip, Candyland center, led the scoring for the day with 15 points.

Two more games will be played in the Biddy Basketball League on Wednesday, at the Monroe County YMCA.

Rose Rallies
To Triumph
Over Seixas

Adelaide, Australia, (AP)—Australia's Mervyn Rose, two points from defeat, staged a spectacular finishing burst yesterday to turn back Vic Seixas of Philadelphia for the South Australian tennis championship.

The erratic lefthander downed the captain of the United States Davis Cup forces in a stirring match, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9.

Held Up
America's colors were held up, however, by Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, queen of the amateur courts, who won her fourth straight women's singles title on this continent by defeating Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Connolly, who previously had scored in the New South Wales, Victorian and Australian National Tournaments, later teamed with Australia's young Lewis Hoad to capture the mixed doubles crown.

Eastern League To Hold Winter Meeting

Williamsport (AP)—The Class "A" Eastern Baseball League will hold its annual mid-winter meeting Saturday, January 31, in New York City.

Adoption of a 154 game schedule, heaviest ever undertaken by the class "A" league is the major piece of business, Thomas H. Richardson, president of the league, said yesterday.

One Shift

Since last year there has been one shift of franchise, Wilkes-Barre replacing Hartford, Conn.

Wilkes-Barre a charter member of the league organized in 1923, was out of the circuit in 1952 when its team was transferred to Reading.

The teams in the league in addition to Wilkes-Barre and Reading are Williamsport, and Scranton, Pa., and Elmira, Binghamton, Albany and Schenectady, N. Y.

The Eastern League Baseball Writers Association will hold its meeting Sunday.

Amateur Athletic Union To Launch National Drive For Funds To Improve Sports Program

New York (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union launched a $500,000 fund drive to enlarge the nation's sports program yesterday with the ringing battle cry: "We must beat Russia."

"Russia subsidizes her athletes," declared Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who heads a 70 man committee assigned to fatten AAU coffers. "She subsidizes her athletes with proletarian methods. She has millions training daily while working for the government."

"To meet this challenge we must make our country sports conscious, must reach out to get five million, yes, 10 million more young men and women under athletic training."

"We must continue to beat Russia. Other countries are watching us. They must see our youths as an example of American manhood."

Showing America's deep concern over growing Russian athletic strength, other AAU officials at a noon luncheon spoke of measures to improve this country's standards in gymnastics, wrestling and other minor endeavors.

Charles Ornstein, veteran AAU and Olympic official, said he had been told by U. S. gymnastic coaches and authorities that the entire American system of training gymnasts would have to be overhauled.

"Russia's women especially dominated this event," Ornstein said. "That's because they were trained for it since childhood. They take ballet lessons to acquire grace and then they train constantly. Our women, to match them, will have to do the same."

It was through their success in gymnastics mostly that the Russians pressed the United States for the unofficial team championship of the Olympic games at Helsinki last summer. After trailing most of the way, the U. S. rallied on the final weekend to gain an overall edge of 610 points to 553½. Points are awarded for six places—10 for first, five for second, four for third, etc.

Announcement of the AAU half-million dollar drive was made by Douglas E. Roby of Detroit, national AAU president, at the luncheon meeting attended by AAU officials, newspaper and radio men.

Roby said the drive would start February 14 and the money be raised by public subscription. It's the first such project for this country's amateur ruling body, heretofore fully self-sustaining.

Managing Director Of Grid Cardinals At Odds With Coach

Chicago (AP)—Walter Wolfner, managing director of the Chicago Cardinals, admitted today that "there seem to be some insurmountable problems" between himself and Coach Joe Kuharich.

Rumors have been prevalent for a month that Kuharich, who guided the University of San Francisco to an undefeated season in 1951, was on his way out after serving one year as Cardinal mentor in the National Football League.

Wolfner said one of the main problems centers around the firing of certain assistant coaches. The front office reportedly wants Kuharich to cut loose Mike Nixon, former Pittsburgh Steeler backfield coach, and Bill Daddio, who coached at Allegheny College in Pennsylvania before joining the Cardinals' new staff last year.

Wolfner said he and Kuharich soon will have a "showdown" meeting.

DeMarco Draws Suspension In Massachusetts

New York (AP)—Lightweight contender Paddy De Marco was listed as suspended indefinitely by the Massachusetts State Athletic Commission in the weekly bulletin released yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The release said the Brooklyn boxer was suspended "for failure to fulfill a contract."

Injury

De Marco said he sprained an ankle while training and was unable to go through with his fight last Saturday with Freddie "Babe" Herman in Boston.

Writers Honor LeBaron

Philadelphia (AP)—Eddie LeBaron, 23-year-old ex-marine who made an amazing football comeback after suffering serious injuries in the Korean War, was named the most courageous athlete of 1952 by Philadelphia sports writers last night.

The 165-pound quarterback for the Washington Redskins of the National Football League won the coveted award at the sportswriters' 49th annual banquet.

Also honored were Bobby Shantz, the Philadelphia Athletics' pinstriped pitcher, as the outstanding athlete of the year, and Donn Moorman of USLA as the lineman of the year.

Large Turnout

More than 1,200 writers and sports notables were on hand for the presentations.

LeBaron, a Lodi, Calif., youth who played for the College of the Pacific in his undergraduate days, suffered right leg and shoulder wounds while serving as a Marine lieutenant, near Yangu, Korea, in the summer of 1951.

The injuries all but spelled doom for his football career. In fact, LeBaron planned for a while to give up football and make a career out of the Marine corps.

Great Crowd Attends Funeral Services For Former Ring Czar

New York (AP)—Mike Jacobs would have liked it that way. The old promoter turned "in" away in his final show.

There were few things Uncle Mike liked more than a sellout. He went, near great and plain guys and dolls in boxing and sports paid a final tribute at funeral services for the 72-year-old former promoter and ticket broker at the Riverside Memorial Chapel. Interment was at Washington Cemetery in Brooklyn.

Empire

Jacobs, who ruled a fistie empire until he suffered stroke six years ago, died of a heart attack in Miami last Saturday. He sold out his boxing interests to the International Boxing Club three and one-half years ago.

Joe Louis was one of the pall bearers. Jacobs would have liked that, too. The old Brown Bomber rocketed to fame under the promotional guidance of the shrewd Jacobs. Poker-faced as usual, Joe blinked often during the service as he tried to suppress his emotions.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to melt out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right, then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Hickok presented the prize belt with its solid gold buckle and 26 diamonds to the 28-year-old slugger from Brockton, Mass., to keep permanently.

Marciano, unbeaten in 43 fights with 38 knockouts, broke the grip of baseball in the pro competition. Phil Rizzuto, New York Yankee shortstop, won the first Yankee pitcher, Alvin Reynolds, Yankee pitcher, named Jersey Joe Walcott for the 1951 award.

Poll

Marciano polled 80 first place votes from the nation-wide panel of 146 sports writers and sportscasters. On the basis of 3-2-1 for a first, second or third place mention, the rock piled up 309 points.

Bobby Shantz, the Philadelphia A's half-pint southpaw who was named most valuable player in the American League, finished third with 16 firsts and 120 points.

Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' replacement for Joe DiMaggio in center field, won 11 first and 90 points for fourth place.

Annual Oscar Derby Moves Into High Gear As Filmdom Weighs 1952's Best Pictures

By LEONARD RANDOLPH

The annual "Oscar derby" is now in full swing. Hollywood moviemakers—ever on the alert for the good gimmick to promote their pictures—are rushing their products from the cutting room into the projection booth in order that they may qualify for the motion picture kingdom's yearly awards for the "best" in anything or everything.

"Oscars" are the affectionate names given to the small gold-plated (and tarnishable) statuettes handed out each year by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

To qualify for the competition, a movie must have opened in a regular, commercial theater prior to the end of the year. Most of the time, the producer gets his film in the can and rushes it into a Los Angeles theater under the wire.

Shirley Booth

This year's race reached actual completion some days ago. Awards will not be made until the spring of the year, when the members of the Academy do their own voting.

Considered "sure things" for nomination in the "Oscar race" are such old-timers as Bette Davis, Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper. The 1952 contest is going to be loaded with strangers, however. Two of the newcomers will be making their first appearance on the screen.

Here's the way the nominations shape up currently:

For "best actress": Shirley Booth in the Hal Wallis production of "Come Back, Little Sheba." Miss Booth plays the role she originated on Broadway in the William Inge play about an irresponsible, frustrated, middle-aged woman married to a former alcoholic. For her part in the stage version of the play, Miss Booth received five citations from drama critics and theater organizations.

Julie Harris in "The Member of the Wedding," another film adaptation of a famous Broadway play. Miss Harris also plays the role she originated in New York, as do Ethel Waters and Brandon DeWilde. (Miss Waters is co-starred with Miss Harris, but will likely be nominated in the "best supporting actress" division instead.)

Joan Crawford in "Sudden Fear," a "suspense" movie dealing with the reaction of a middle-aged woman playwright to the fact that the man she has married plans to kill her.

Other awards are given each year for the "best supporting actor" and "supporting actress"; "producer", "director" and nearly three dozen other divisions. The major awards, however, are for the leading roles.

The receipt of an "Oscar" (which many Hollywood stars treat with an attitude bordering on indifference once they've got it) may elevate an actor or actress to stardom. It may also mean an increase in salary and demand for the actor's talents.

For the producer of the picture, it means an estimated $50,000 to $500,000 additional take at the box office. That's not to be sneezed at in a time when Hollywood is fighting a desperate struggle against television to get people out of their living rooms.

Many producers hold up their best product until close to the end of each year, so that "Oscars"—if any—may be put into newspaper advertising for the film.

Last year John Huston's "The African Queen" won an award for Humphrey Bogart. Bogart was the "sentimental" choice for the award since he had played in many good roles, but had never received an Oscar.

"African Queen" had already played the first time around in some movie houses. When the Oscar went to Bogart, the picture was released again, with proper exploitation. It did better, in almost every instance, on its second run than it had done on the first.

This year the award sweepstakes has a bright, Broadway name in its leading role.

The betting on Broadway, where "Come Back, Little Sheba" opened Christmas week, is that Shirley Booth will win as "best actress."

New York film critics handed down their decisions recently by declaring Miss Booth the finest actress of 1952 on an uncontested first ballot. The critics also tapped "High Noon" as the best picture of the year with Fred Zinnemann's direction of the same movie winning plaudits as best of the year.

The New Yorkers gave their "best actor" nod to Ralph Richardson for his performance as the jet tycoon in David Lean's "Breaking Through the Sound Barrier," an English documentary dealing with the beginning of supersonic aircraft.

In recent years the Academy Awards have often followed the choice of the Film Critics in some departments. Whatever the outcome of the 1952 competition one thing has become apparent during the year; Hollywood is intent upon regaining some of its lost prestige.

In its fight to get back into the winning money, the celluloid city is turning more and more to the Good Story, the Great Play and the Original Broadway Cast.

After years of casting actors without talent in roles which required great sensitivity, maybe the industry ought to give an "Oscar" to Hollywood itself—for the biggest awakening since Rip Van Winkle.

Freddie March in "Man On The Tightrope", the adventures of an anti-Communist circus in Red territory. Not yet released for public consumption.

Jose Ferrer in "Moulin Rouge", a movie based on the life of French poster artist Toulouse-Lautrec. Not yet released on a country-wide level, the film was shown for the first time this week in Los Angeles.

Exchange Club Honors Boy, Sees Wrestling Demonstration

Wrestlers moved in on the Exchange Club at East Stroudsburg Methodist Church last night. Club members took part only as spectators. The wrestlers were three varsity men from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, accompanied by Coach George Ocker-shausen: Robert Wagner, James Ravello and Joseph Meyers.

The affair was principally a demonstration of holds and college wrestling techniques.

Wrestling — college wrestling, that is — is probably the fairest of all sports, according to the coach. Men wrestle within their own weight limits. Strength is not the essential element in wrestling. It takes second place to being able to anticipate an opponent's moves and to skill and agility.

College and high school wrestling is considerably different from the professional TV-type brand, according to the coach. He labeled such professional antics as strictly fake—but applauded the professionals as extremely skilled at their art and as exceptional gymnasts.

The demonstration lasted at least a half hour.

Boy of the month, a regular feature of Exchange Club meetings, was named by Dr. Grady Moore. He is W. Harry Caulfield, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, East Stroudsburg.

The youth has served as senior class treasurer at the High School, played basketball and baseball, been on numerous committees and engaged in school functions.

There once were farmers and businessmen in these countries too, but like the German laborers, they have probably become so enmeshed now that most of them couldn't get away even if there was a door. And the poor in Communism's empire have no means of moving.

The Soviets hold all these terrorized millions by force, nurturing a great ferment. And if you want to boil it down, that lies at the bottom of the Western hope

Reds Closing Death Trap On Germans

By J. M. Roberts Jr., Associated Press News Analyst

The spectacle of thousands of people fleeing from the Communist Terror in the East Zone of Germany gives one a picture of what would be happening throughout the Russian sphere if only there were more escape hatches.

It won't last long. The Russian-controlled East German authorities are working frantically to close this last door, and soon the Iron Curtain will be a death trap in the middle of Germany as it is along the borders of Russia and her satellites. Even now, nobody knows how many refugees are trapped, with liberty almost in sight, in the 70-mile "death zone" which the Communists are building between East Germany and West Berlin.

People are getting out of the Empire of Terror all along, of course, especially from the Baltic states where narrow waters lead to hope of freedom by way of Scandinavia. But it is only a trickle of ones and twos and tens as compared to the 20,000 who have fled to West Berlin in the last four weeks.

Jews, farmers who resist enslavement through impossible requisitioning, business men facing nationalization, officials who haven't been enthusiastic enough, the poor who can get neither special rations nor buy in the high priced state stores, and people about to be ousted from the "death zone." These are the ones who flee the terror. Laborers impressed into regimented gangs have little chance for freedom.

To get an idea of what would happen if other doors were open, consider only the case of the Jews. For centuries they have congregated in Russia and Eastern Europe, behind what is now the Iron Curtain. Some have been deported, some permitted to leave, since the war. But the World Almanac says there were two million left in Russia in 1949, 350,000 in Rumania, 18,000 in Czechoslovakia, 7,000 in Bulgaria, 160,000 in Hungary, 80,000 in Poland despite Hitler's mass extermination. Two and a half million Jews alone face the new purge—the Terror.

There once were farmers and businessmen in these countries too, but like the German laborers, they have probably become so enmeshed now that most of them couldn't get away even if there was a door. And the poor in Communism's empire have no means of moving.

Immediate End Of Controls On Beef Recommended By Congressional Committee

Washington, AP—A House subcommittee called yesterday for an immediate end to price ceilings and other controls on beef.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Hill (R-Colo.), got out a statement saying government regulations are contributing to a dangerous decline in prices to cattle farmers.

Consumers get no benefit from OPS ceilings, the group said, because many retail tradesmen regard the present ceiling prices as fair and therefore do not lower retail prices "as fast or as far" as would be warranted by live cattle prices.
